

About the Presenters

ATM Sajedul Huq is the Director of the Center for Language Studies (CLS) at the University of Liberal Arts Bangladesh. Prior to joining ULAB he taught English language at Chiang Mai University in Thailand. His interests include Graphic Novels, Comic Book Studies, and English for Specific Purposes.
Muhammed Shahriar Haque, Ph.D. is a Professor in the Department of English, and Executive Director, East West University Centre for Research and Training. He has presented papers in 65 conferences, published over 25 scholarly articles, co-edited two books, and is the editor of the peer-reviewed Journal East West Journal of Humanities.
Md. Tanvir Ahamed Siddiki is an English Teacher at Lakehead Grammar School. He participated in the first online course conducted between Bangladeshi universities and Evergreen Valley College, USA, and was the only participant to get an ‘A’ grade. Tanvir is very tech-savvy, with in-depth knowledge of networking, hardware and windows troubleshooting.
Masrufa Ayesha Nusrat is Assistant Professor, Department of English, East West University. She specializes in Women Writing, Feminism and Cultural Studies. She is also a literary translator and has a book of her own translated short stories of five contemporary women writers of Bangladesh- Celebration and Other Stories (2015).
Afroza Akhter Tina is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of English at Daffodil International University. With the academic presentations in different national and international conferences she has earned inspiration to continue with her research interest which includes ELT, Sociolinguistics, Research Methodology, Mobile Learning and Postcolonial Literature.
M. Rakibul Hasan Khan is an Assistant Professor in the Department of English, Daffodil International University. He is a great enthusiast for research activities and creative writing. His research area includes postcolonial literature & theories and diaspora studies.
Tasneem Siraj Mahboob, an Associate Professor in the Department of English, University of Dhaka, is a graduate of Columbia University, USA with specialization in TESOL. Her areas of interest among others include teacher education, material development, and language skills development.
Mirza Md. Adwit Rahman, a Senior Lecturer in the Department of English, Stamford University Bangladesh is a graduate from University of Dhaka in Applied Linguistics and ELT. He has academic and research interest in psycholinguistic & sociolinguistic aspects, and language skills development.

Abu Saleh Md. Rafi is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of English, Daffodil International University. He has four international and three national publications to his credit. His research interest involves gender, education, and literature. He is a TESOL teacher jointly certified by University of Oregon and US department of State.
Md. Didar Hossain completed his Masters in Applied Linguistics and ELT with distinction from the Department of English, Jahangirnagar University. He is currently working as a Senior Lecturer at the English Language Institute of United International University. He has a keen interest in Applied Linguistics and ELT based research.
Rama Islam is an Assistant Professor, Department of English, Metropolitan University, Sylhet, Bangladesh. Her areas of interest include Feminism, Postcolonialism, Postmodernism and Cultural Studies. Her research articles have appeared in various journals. She also explores music, especially Tagore and Nazrul songs.
Tan Bee Hoon (PhD) is an Associate Professor of Applied Linguistics at the Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, Putra University of Malaysia. Her research interests are mainly in language learning technology, language assessment, ESP, CMC and online discourse. She is the chief editor of The English Teacher (2008-2013), and Journal of Language and Communication from 2013. She is also Editorial Board Member of Pertanika JSSH, and Reviewer of several journals.
Md. Masudul Hasan is currently a PhD candidate in the Department of English, Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, Putra University of Malaysia. His research interests include computer-assisted language learning (CALL), Computer Mediated Communication (CMC), e-learning and peer assessment.
Ariful Islam Laskar is an Assistant Professor in the Department of English at Daffodil International University. He got his MA degree in English Literature from Jahangirnagar University. Currently he is perusing an MPhil degree. He has been teaching English for almost six years. Before joining DIU, he taught at ASA University Bangladesh. He has a great passion for teaching and writing fiction and nonfiction.
Shampa Iftakhar is working as a Senior Lecturer in the Department of English at Daffodil International University. She has completed B.A. (Hons) and Masters in English from Jahangirnagar University. She is a lifetime member of BELTA and NELTA. Her recent research areas include Technology in Education, Teacher Education, American Literature, History, Film and Literature, and ELT.

Md. Mustafizur Rahman is an Assistant Professor in the Department of English at Daffodil International University. He completed his B.A. (Honours) and Masters in English from National University. Now he is doing his PhD in ELT at Jahangirnagar University. He has five publications in National and International Journals.
Tahsina Yasmin is Assistant Professor of the Department of English, Daffodil International University. Her interests lie in innovation in teaching and critical thinking. Seven of her papers have been published in peer-reviewed journals. She is currently pursuing her MPhil at Dhaka University. She is a member of BELTA and AsiaTEFL.
Mohammad Shafiqul Islam, Assistant Professor of English at Shahjalal University of Science and Technology, Sylhet, Bangladesh, is currently doing PhD at Assam University, India. His areas of interest are poetry, creative writing and translation from Bengali into English. Theories he likes to work on include Romanticism, Modernism, Postmodernism and Postcolonialism.
Sumana Gupta is a Lecturer in the Department of English at Jahangirnagar University. Her research interest covers Applied Linguistics and ELT, Sociolinguistics. Some of the areas she has researched and published on are teacher education, teaching English to young learners. She has recently published a paper in Jahangirnagar Review.
Dr. Khan Md. Anwarus Salam received PhD and M.Eng. in Information and Communication Engineering from the University of Electro-Communications, Tokyo, and B.Sc. in Computer Science from BRAC University, Bangladesh. He is an Assistant Professor in the University of Asia Pacific. His research interests include natural language processing and machine translation.
Amin Rahman has qualifications in Electrical Engineering, Computer Science, Technology Management and Applied Linguistics. He has lived and worked in Pakistan, Scotland, Bangladesh, Iraq, Venezuela, Australia, Zimbabwe and Kuwait. He now lives and works from Australia with his research colleagues in Bangladesh using digital technology.
Aniruddha Bhattacharya is a final year B.Sc. student in the Department of Computer Science & Engineering at the University of Asia Pacific in Dhaka, Bangladesh. His current research interests are in the areas of computer algorithms for complex processes, human interfaces for computer applications. He likes competitive programming.
Mahfuz ul Hasib Chowdhury is a Senior Lecturer, Department of English, Metropolitan University, Sylhet. He has been working there since June 2012. He completed BA (Honours) in English from University of Chittagong in 1999 and accomplished Master of Arts from People's Friendship University of

Russia, Moscow in 2002.
Subrata Chandra Mozumder is a Senior Lecturer, Department of English, Daffodil International University. He has graduated from the Department of English, University of Chittagong in English Literature. At present, he is an M. Phil Research Fellow at the same university. His areas of interest include Modern poetry, Confessional poetry, South Asian Writing in English, Feminism, Postcolonialism and Ecocriticism.
Prabal Das Gupta is a Lecturer in the BRAC Institute of Language (BIL) at BRAC University. His research interest includes postcolonial and postmodern literature, poetry, New Literature, British and American fiction, Shakespeare, ESP, and socio-linguistic.
Antara Basak is a Senior Lecturer, Department of English, Daffodil International University. She earned her M.A. in ELT from the University of Dhaka and B.A. (Honours) in English from Rajshahi University. Her research interests are Sociolinguistics, English for Specific Purposes, Second Language Education. She has presented papers at different national and international conferences.
Shahriar Mohammad Kamal is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of English at Daffodil International University. His research area includes postmodern literature, postcolonial literature and language teaching. He received BA (Hons.) and MA degree in English from Jahangirnagar University, Dhaka, Bangladesh.
S. M. Maniruzzaman completed B.A. (Honours) in English and M.A. in English Literature from the University of Dhaka. Currently he is teaching at Notre Dame University Bangladesh as a Lecturer in English. He is interested in Post-colonialism, Postmodernism, Modern and Postmodern Literature, Critical theory, and Translation Studies. He writes in English and Bengali.
Basmala Taharat Bidushi is a Graduate Teaching Assistant in the Department of English, East West University. She has studied English Literature and Linguistics, and has specialized in English Language Teaching. Her interests include English Language Teaching, Tertiary Level Education, as well as Film and Media Studies.
Nujhat Afrin is a Senior Lecturer, Department of English, Daffodil International University. She has obtained her BA and MA (ELT) from Jahangirnagar University and has worked as a news presenter, banker, and teacher. Her diversified professional experiences set her interests in poetry, sociolinguistics, communicative teaching style, gender and culture studies, post-war orientation etc.

Nazua Idris is a Lecturer in English at East West University. She has presented twenty-four papers at national and international conferences in Bangladesh, India, Nepal, and Malaysia, and conducted teacher training workshops at BRAC, SPEED and Scholastica. She has ten publications to her credit. Her research interests: Film and media studies and cultural studies.
Mohammad Saeid Hassan Khan is currently working as a Lecturer in the Department of English at Presidency University. He did his MA in English from Anglia Ruskin University and BA Honors in English from Rajshahi University. His research interest lies in postcolonial, modern and postmodern literature.
Sharaban Tohura is currently doing MA in ELT from East West University. She completed her BA and MA in English Literature from National University. Her research interests are Professional Development, Technology Enhanced Teaching, Learner-Centered Teaching, Educational Technologies and Cultural Studies.
Md. Habibullah is Assistant Professor and Head, Department of English, World University of Bangladesh. He completed MA in English Literature in 2005 from the University of Dhaka. Besides his work at World University, he is also teaching as an Adjunct Faculty in English at the University of Dhaka.
Sanjeeda Hossain is a Lecturer in the Department of English, University of Dhaka. She has completed her B. A. (Honors) and M. A. in English Literature. Her areas of interest include Gender Studies, South Asian Literature and Teaching Language through Literature.
Kazi Ashraf Uddin is currently working as an Assistant Professor in the Department of English, Jahangirnagar University. His academic interest includes Gender and Sexuality, Postmodern and Postcolonial discourses, Cultural Studies, Media representation and Critical Theory. His recent publication questioned the structuralist notion of violence and thus attempted a deconstructionist reading regarding minority discourse focusing on “manhood”.
Md. Shafiqul Islam is a Lecturer in English at United International University, Dhaka. He has completed his MA in Literature in English and Cultural Studies and BA in English with distinction from the Department of English, Jahangirnagar University. His areas of research interest include postmodernism, women and gender, cultural studies and science fiction literature.

Claire Bradin Siskin is working as an English Language Specialist at Daffodil International University in Dhaka. She is an enthusiastic practitioner of computer-assisted language learning (CALL). Siskin is the former Director of the English as a Second Language Writing Online Workshop (ESL-WOW).
Dr. Bipasha Binte Haque is an Assistant Professor of English at Daffodil International University. She earned her PhD from Australia. She earned her MA in ELT from England. She also earned an MA in English Literature from the University of Dhaka. Her research area is listening skills in English.
Shamsi Ara Huda works as an Assistant Professor in the Department of English at Daffodil International University. She has published four research articles and one book. She is interested in reflective teaching, materials design and computer assisted language learning (CALL).
Sadia Zafrin Lia is working a Lecturer in the Department of English at Daffodil International University. She has presented papers at Dhaka University and at the University of Liberal Arts Bangladesh (ULAB). Previously, she worked for the College of Development Alternative (CODA) as an English teacher.
Mir Sadia Siddequa is a Research Associate in the Department of English, Daffodil International University. She earned her BA and MA degree in ELT from Daffodil International University. Her interests include CALL and online teaching. Currently she is working on LiveCode for developing apps for language learning.	